

Student questions relating to Dr. Nahla's interview with Al Arab News.

1. Who are Qatar Biobank, and what is their role?
2. Who are the participants for their medical research, and what is their role?
3. What is the purpose of collecting samples from participants?
4. What do you think might be some ethical implications of taking samples from participants?
5. How does Qatar Biobank's research benefit Qatari communities?
6. What do the sample results determine, and what can the results of the research help with? Explain your answer.
7. What partners work in collaboration with Biobank?
8. What is the connection between precision health and Qatar Biobank's research?
9. What is one thing that you find interesting?
10. What questions might you have, or want to know more about?